Slavery and Human Trafficking Statement 2017

This statement relates to the financial year ending 31 December 2017 and is made by TechnipFMC plc and its relevant subsidiaries in compliance with the Modern Slavery Act 2015.

“Respect” is one of our Foundational Beliefs. It guides how we fundamentally do business and what we never compromise on, no matter the circumstances. We believe that everyone is entitled to honest, fair and courteous treatment. We do not tolerate any form of modern slavery and do express a strong commitment against the use of forced and child labor and our support for respecting human rights.

Policies

The Company’s Code of Business Conduct, which applies to all directors, officers, and employees and anyone who represents TechnipFMC or acts on our behalf, reflects our commitment to acting ethically and lawfully and describes our commitment to recognizing human rights on a global basis. We do not hire or recruit anyone not legally authorized to work in the country in which employment is sought. We do not tolerate use of child, forced, indentured, or involuntary labor, regardless of where we conduct business, and will do business only with those who respect human rights and uphold labor laws.

Our Code of Business Conduct requires adherence to the following principles, amongst others:

- Treat people with dignity and respect.
- Act without discrimination or prejudice.
- Create an environment that is free from harassment.
- Ensure that our business partners and suppliers do not engage in inappropriate labor practices, including child or indentured labor.
- Promote equality in the workplace with salaries based on merit.
- Cooperate with regular inspections and audits to verify that our values are implemented throughout the Company.

Employees and third parties are encouraged to report suspected breaches of our Code of Business Conduct through various means, including through our reporting hotline. We operate a zero-tolerance policy on retaliation against employees for reporting suspected violations.

As a Company, we strive for continuous improvement in all that we do. As such, we continue to assess our policies and procedures to address slavery and human trafficking risks in our business or supply chains.

The risk of slavery or human trafficking occurring in connection with our business or supply chains will depend on the nature of our activities and the countries in which we operate. We recognize that certain of the sectors and jurisdictions in which we operate present greater potential risks of slavery and human trafficking. We are aware that our commitment to ethical business practice requires concerted and on-going effort to better understand and respond to those risks.

Supply Chain and Supplier Due Diligence

TechnipFMC currently has approximately 6,000 direct suppliers across the globe. We aim to develop business relationships with like-minded subcontractors, suppliers, and business partners who are guided by a similar set of principles of business conduct, and aspire to only do business with counterparties who respect human rights and uphold labor laws.

Our suppliers are subject to due diligence checks that extend to compliance with labor laws and the ethical treatment of workers. Going forward, we will continue to assess how our Company-wide due diligence processes and supplier monitoring processes could be reinforced in this area.

Further, our suppliers are required to accept and abide by contractual provisions addressing compliance with a range of ethical issues. There are specific commitments, which in some instances make reference to the ILO Conventions, that prohibit forced or child labor.

Training and Awareness

Employee training is an essential component of communicating and embedding our commitment to prevent slavery and human trafficking within our business. We are in the process of implementing training for all employees on our Code of Business Conduct, including the sections addressing human rights and labor welfare. In addition, trainings were delivered to suppliers, in some instances, at a project and regional level.
